

Conor B. Dugan
Attorney
Warner Norcross & Judd
City, State

Attorney Conor Dugan is senior counsel at Warner Norcross & Judd specializing in litigation. Conor grew up in Grand Rapids, Michigan where he attended East Grand Rapids High School. After high school, Conor graduated from Dartmouth College and Notre Dame Law School. After law school, Conor clerked for then-Judge Samuel A. Alito, Jr. on the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit, worked as an appellate litigator in the Civil Rights Division of the U.S. Department of Justice for nearly seven years, and served as counsel at an appellate and Supreme Court boutique firm in Washington, D.C.

In 2012, Conor and his wife, Laurel, who is also from Grand Rapids, decided it was time to move home. Laurel is an artist and also teaches art at Sacred Heart Academy. They have four children ranging in age from 15 to 5.

Conor has significant legal experience ranging from trial and appellate litigation to counseling Fortune 500 companies. In law school he desired to find some way to serve the Church through the law. Serving the Diocese of Kalamazoo is a dream come true.

In addition to his work at the law firm, Conor is involved in the community. He is a board member of Catholic Charities West Michigan, Chair of the Advisory Board of the St. Benedict Institute at Hope College, Treasurer of the Catholic Lawyers Association of Western Michigan, and a member of the Sacred Heart of Jesus Pastoral Council.

In his free time, Conor enjoys reading, Notre Dame football, Toronto Blue Jays baseball, and trying out new restaurants.