

Agenda

Thursday, October 12

with Ted Neitzke, CEO CESA 6, and Mayor, of Port Washington, WI

Morning Keynote: The Best Version of You Can Be Found in the Storm
Leadership is a muscle that needs work, conditioning, care, and use. Join Ted for an energetic, funny, and applicable conversation to support your self-care, development, and mindset.

Session One: Racing to Authenticity

People talk about Professional Learning Communities. The truth? Too often we work in Pretend Learning Communities. Ted is going to introduce you to a process that supports authenticity.

Session Two: Who Are We Really?

We are always talking about our values. However, we rarely view values through the eyes of those we serve. Ted will share multiple tools to help you identify who we really are so that we can do more together for our kids and school community.

Session Three: Not My Problem... Our Problem

What is your process to support others so that they are empowered to fix what is bothering them instead of enabling them to blame you for their issue? This session will focus on the engagement strategies to support staff as they work to be the best version of themselves. We'll learn how to bring the problem to the problem.

Friday, October 13

with Friendzy staff Julie Emory-Johnson, Ed.D., National Partnership Director, and Whitney Stovall, MS, NCC, Catholic School Partnership Specialist

Morning Keynote: The Power of Positive-Building Friendships Through Intentional Practices

Positivity is powerfully contagious. Through intentional practices, we can make schools places of great joy. Using God's gifts, let's boldly create a place where everyone wants to learn, work, and be a part of it. 2 Timothy 1:7 "For God did not give us a spirit of fear, but of power, love, and self-control."

In this session, we will think about how God's gifts empower us to build the schools and workplaces of our dreams - places where people thrive and God's vision for community is honored.

Session One: Racing to Authenticity Core Value Index: Strengthening the Core of Your Leadership Team

This session is focused on building connections and community in leadership that is foundational for building a strong and healthy climate and culture in our schools. We will utilize the Core Value Index (CVI) as a tool for identifying, understanding, and leveraging individual and team strengths in a school setting.

Session Two: I Manage Me: How Co-Regulation and Self-Management Skills Can Transform Your School

Think back to your last perfect school day. If this is an impossible memory to find, you aren't alone! From traffic in the morning to student conflict, our days are filled with stressors. When these stressors get the best of us, it can be difficult to lovingly manage a classroom filled with students. Join Friendzy leaders as we discuss the power of co-regulation in the classroom and in life! This session will introduce simple self-management tools for both you, your staff, and your students.
